

BELT AND ROAD INITIATIVE FORUM Second (2nd) Session on Thursday 23rd August 2018

This is a forum of a series of four bimonthly sessions with a theme of “Belt and Road Initiative” (BRI), which is jointly organized by The Hong Kong Logistics Management Staff Association (HKLMSA), C.Y. Tung International Centre for Maritime Studies, PolyU (ICMS) and the Hong Kong Seamen Union (HKSU). It employs the Interdisciplinary Learning/Back-to-Basics (IDL/B2B) methodology and the sessions are conducted in an open forum case study with interactive question and answer (Q&A) discussions. It is a platform for those from all sectors of the Hong Kong economy, businessmen, eminent professionals, academics and even students, to explore what BRI offers them, and to share their expertise and valuable experience in realizing the opportunities through application of the BRI Triangle Theory of “Politics, Economics & Culture”.

The Second (2nd) Session of the BRI Forum is on the topic “Logistics Development in Hong Kong – Challenges & Future under BRI”.

It will examine the development of logistics in Hong Kong mainly from 1950, in maritime, land and air transportation, in an integrated logistics system, with main focus on maritime and aviation industries. It will trace the development of Hong Kong as a transshipment port, its development into a container port from the 1970’s, and the growth of the aviation sector. There will be case study discussions on the possible impact of the HK/Macau/Zhuhai Bridge and the Greater Bay Area Development to HK logistics, in relation to its current problems and issues.

The Moderator for this 2nd Session will be Mr. Sunny Ho Lap Kee of the Hong Kong Shippers’ Council, with other members of the Panel of Moderators and Advisors in attendance.

All members, non-members and guests are cordially invited to attend the Second Session.

His research interests include fluid mechanics, hydrodynamics, maritime safety, marine traffic, maritime economics, shipping finance, port management, and low carbon logistics. He has published more than 50 papers in peer-reviewed journals.

Capt. Richard James GAINS

Richard Gains is a master mariner. He joined Brookes Bell in 1998, from a position as master of large bulk carriers trading worldwide, became a partner in 2004 and re-located to Brookes Bell Hong Kong in May 2013.

During his twenty-two years at sea, he served on numerous ship types, including passenger vessels, gas, oil and product tankers, general cargo vessels, as well as bulk carriers.

Richard has six years' command experience on large bulk carriers ranging from 126,000 DWT up to 188,000 DWT. Operating largely in the international coal and iron ore markets, his experience of handling large vessels includes berthing at the off-shore bulk loading terminal Boca Grande, at the mouth of the Orinoco, and self-pilotage through the Sedgwin Straits. While trading in the Atlantic Basin, he gained experience of handling deep-draught vessels in the busy European traffic lanes, often in restricted visibility. During voyages to and from Far East destinations such as South Korea, Japan, Taiwan and China, he made numerous transits of the Singapore Straits and one of the deepest transits through the Suez Canal with a draught of 17.4 metres.

As a marine consultant, he has attended an extensive range of ship types, including general cargo, bulk carriers, multi-purpose, container and clean oil tankers.

He has attended many casualties, salvage and wreck removal operations, and he has acted as SCR on a number of occasions with all parties' approval.

Richard also gained considerable experience with the managing of oil pollution claims while acting as head of the Claims Office in Korea for the IOPC Fund, following the HEBEI SPIRIT incident. The extended period that Richard spent in Korea led to him being invited and appointed as an arbitrator to the Panel of International Arbitrators by the Korean Commercial Arbitration Board.

He has given expert evidence in the Admiralty High Court and London Arbitrations on numerous occasions and given evidence in the USA. His main area of specialist activity is with regard to a range of nautical matters, including navigation, seamanship, ship handling, and cargo damage matters.

Mr. Matthew FENTON

Matthew Fenton holds an unlimited Chief Engineer's Certificate of Competence for Steam, Motor and Gas Turbine vessels of Any HP in addition to a Bachelor of Science degree in Marine Engineering Technology from the California Maritime Academy. He joined Brookes Bell Hong Kong in November 2012, when he moved from a major marine underwriter in Singapore.

After serving at sea and as a superintendent engineer, Matthew moved into the marine insurance field in 2000, when he joined a major adjusting firm based in Hong Kong as North Asia Technical Manager. During this posting, he was responsible for the investigation, management and adjusting of energy and marine claims as well as serving as the resident surveyor for an International Group P&I Club.

His experience as a loss adjuster and surveyor has seen him work with a wide variety of ship types as well as hull & machinery and cargo casualties. He also applied his operational experience in the offshore sector to the survey, management and adjustment of energy claims involving platforms, support vessels and floating production systems. Matthew was responsible for developing and implementing risk engineering programs for offshore vessel fleets, ports and terminals, factory-to-site transportation of heavy lift and project cargo in support of insurance policies which included Delay in Start Up coverage.

Matthew is the author of several professional articles on various topics, including the carriage of steel cargoes and transformers and shipyard pre-risk inspections. He has also written risk engineering guidelines for heavy lifts, project cargo, power plant equipment and ocean towing.

During his 30-year career in the marine and offshore industries, Matthew has served as a senior officer and Chief Engineer on chemical tankers and roll-on/roll-off ships before moving ashore as a Superintendent Engineer. Earlier in his sea-going career, he served aboard bulk carriers, oceanographic survey vessels, and passenger/cargo vessels.

While a Superintendent Engineer, he was responsible for day-to-day operation, maintenance repair and conversion of ocean-going ships as well as floating production systems (FPSO). He served as project manager for the the service life extension of an FPSO in Singapore and conversion of two RoRo vessels in the United States. His global experience as a Superintendent has given him a wide variety of experience in the management of repair projects, including the technical and commercial aspects of working with shipyards and design firms.

A decorated naval officer, Matthew served as a reserve officer with the US Navy in the Middle and Far East, at sea and ashore in support of fleet and ground logistic operations. This work included carrying out risk assessments of port and shipyard facilities in a number of countries. His expertise was vital to the development of counter-piracy doctrine and operations in the waters around the Horn of Africa. Matthew retired from the Navy as a Captain after 30 years of service in June 2012.

Since moving to East Asia in 1997, Matthew has lived and worked in Mainland China, Hong Kong and Singapore. He is conversational in Mandarin Chinese.
